

COMEI

Bitmama has collaborated with Comei since 2007 creating the first website for the streetwear 313 brand, and managing global digital communication for the Add brand.

SCENARIO

As Add is a fashion brand targeted to a select adult consumer target, the stylistic choices for graphics and animation were designed to best represent the class and elegance of the brand, tracing the clear clean lines of the garments.

The minimalism and kinetic navigation of the site give the user a fresh, new experience, almost an artistic video installation, which guides the user in discovering an unmistakable style. The fundamental design characteristic of the Add site is dynamism of navigation.

A treatment like the one used in the Add site involves the creation of an online window that displays the brand in a simple but sophisticated way through the study, design, and creation of the catalog and sales site for the seasonal lines.

The clean lines of the visuals and the technology used contribute to create a refined image combined with simple intuitive navigation, marked by an elegant dynamism.

Typical of the rhythm represented by the stylish point of contact with the 313 brand, an unconventional youth fashion brand, which through extensive use of video provides a strongly emotional user experience. While the two sites have multiple points of contact, they are diametrically opposed in terms of navigation style, because while Add uses a more "traditional" studied approach to reach its individual target, 313 implemented a web 2.0 user logic even in the first release of the site.

313 presents its collections by treating each product as a story, narrated through images and video tabs. Users can also comment on the products, rate them, navigate by tag and upload their own videos to a dedicated channel on YouTube.

Thanks to the extensive use of video, to the appealing graphics, and to the youthful tone, it was possible to translate the dynamism and spontaneity of the brand in a targeted user experience.

The intent was to make it possible for the audience to experience the brand and its values by discovering stories expressed through video. Following a web 2.0 logic, users are given the ability to experience a tailored space in which they are not just users, but also content producers, thanks to the YouTube channel. The multi channel approach is the new net frontier that has become an innovative way to spread brand values.
